BAUCOM IS QUEEN OF THE MAY

WILDCATS COMBAT COMMODORES HERE TODAY, SATURDAY

RHOADS, BARNES TO START GAME FOR KENTUCKY

Vanderbilt to Place Strong Lineup With Perfect Record in Field

"BIG BLUE" TO SEEK TO AVENGE '29 LOSS

McBryer and Augustus to Be Battery in Saturday's Game

By Elbert McDonald
The University of Kentucky baseball team will meet the Vanderbilt Commodores here today and Saturday in what is expected to be one of the best games of the season. The Commodores have a strong team and have not been defeated this year and, along with Kentucky, present one of the strongest teams in the South. Vanderbilt will place practically the same team on the field today that spoiled Kentucky's chances for a perfect record last season. The Wildcats nine will be composed of the same team that so maliciously manhandled Coach Lundgreen's Illinois in the presence of "Bob" Zupke here Monday.

Coach Devereaux will start Captain Rhoads on the mound and call on Barnes to do the receiving, in the first game. Paul McBryer, the jinxed Scotchman, will take the slab in the Saturday game while the choice for receiver has not been decided upon.

Mac is determined to break the jinx that has been shadowing him of late and especially to wipe out the memory of his meeting with the Vanderbilt team last year and so can be counted upon to give the large crowd of fans that are expected out to both games a real, pitching exhibition.

The infield has also been improving rapidly and much of the raggedness that has featured the past games and was directly responsible for the three losses to Ohio State, will probably be absent when these teams meet.

The "Big Blue" will only play two Southern Conference teams this season, the other team being our ancient rivals, the Volunteers, and they are anxious to have a clear record when they clash at Knoxville late in May.

PROBATION CONVOCATION

The second meeting of students on month to month probation will take place on Wednesday afternoon, April 30, at 4 o'clock in the registrar's office. Students who must report to the committee may obtain blanks for the registrar's office on which they are to have their grades certified.

Dean C. R. Melcher will leave April 30 for Fayetteville, Ark., where he will attend the annual conference of deans of men. The meeting will be held at the University of Arkansas for three days, May 1, 2, 3. Dean Melcher is on the program. His part is to start a discussion on "Is Religion a Guide in Student Conduct."

THIS IS SERIOUS

Fraternities, sororities, both social and honorary, will be required to send a scholarship report to Dean Melcher before May 10. Fraternities failing to turn in this list within the specified time will be dropped from the scholarship report list.

PEPPIE'S DIARY

TUESDAY—After acclimating myself to lie in bed until noon during the holiday I did indeed struggle to arise to class this day. Last evening at the dance at Frankfort I did see LUCY DAVIS, GEORGETTE WALKER, JIMMY SULLIVAN and many other celebrities and near celebrities. This vacation has indeed had a strange and peculiar effect on some of my friends. Despite the lack of suitable spring

University Cadets Will Be Inspected By Army Officials

Regimental Parade and Guard Mount to Feature Exercises Monday, May 28

Col. E. H. Harris of corps area headquarters, Columbus, Ohio, and Col. F. N. Bowman, of Fort Thomas, will inspect the University R. O. T. C. unit Monday and Tuesday, April 28 and 29. Major Owen R. Meredith, corps commandant, announced last Monday. The inspection will include both drill inspection on the parade grounds and examination on various subjects in the classrooms.

A regimental parade and guard mount will be the feature of the inspection Monday afternoon. The parade and guard mount last Wednesday afternoon were held in preparation for the arrival of the inspection officers.

Although the inspection officers will take into consideration the administrative facilities and activities of the unit, the work of the basic course men filling the ranks will determine the rating of the unit. The officers will vote the unit as unsatisfactory, satisfactory, or excellent, depending upon the results of inspection in the following subjects:

First and second year basic courses, and first and second year advanced courses. Particular attention will be given to general administration inspection; unit training inspection and an economic survey. Special class meetings have been held during the last week for the purpose of preparing the students for the classroom examination.

Staff Members for 1931 Kentuckian to Be Announced Soon

Staff members for the 1931 Kentuckian are being selected, according to Rex Allison, editor, and their names and positions will be announced in the next issue of The Kernel. The position to be filled include associate editorship, division editorship and sophomore and freshman assistants.

The associate and division editors will be selected from the present junior class, and Mr. Allison will receive applications from the members of that class throughout next week. Applications for assistant positions can be handed in to Mr. Allison or Professor Portmann, faculty advisor, before April 16. Any sophomore or freshman is eligible for these positions and the assistants who serve on the 1931 Kentuckian will be given preference for editorial positions on the 1932 staff.

CHAIN STORES TO BE TOPIC OF U. K. N'WESTERN MEET

Sydney Schell and Hugh Jackson to Represent Kentucky Tonight

LOCAL DEBATORS WILL TAKE AFFIRMATIVE SIDE

Speeches to Be Published in Bulletin for High School Distribution

Tonight at 8 o'clock in Room 111 of McVey hall the University of Kentucky and Northwestern University will engage in debate on the question: Are National Chain Stores a Menace to This Community? The University debating team, composed of Sydney Schell and Hugh Jackson, has the affirmative of the question, while the Northwestern team composed of William C. Wines and Richard Peterson, has the negative.

According to Prof. Sutherland, University debate coach, this debate will be one of the most important held on the campus this year.

"It is particularly important because of the current interest manifested in the question, not only by economists, but the people of the commercial world as well."

Stenographers will be present and the speeches will be taken down in shorthand. After corrections have been made the speeches will be published in a bulletin which is issued by the extension department, and distributed to the various high schools throughout the state. The same question will be used by the high schools of twelve states in their debating activities next year, Mr. Sutherland said today.

This is the third year that the University of Kentucky has been the host to the Northwestern debating team. On each occasion they tour Central Kentucky, debating before the various high schools.

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock the two teams debated at Williams-town; Thursday night at Paris, and tonight they are here.

Y. M. APPOINTS CONVENTION MEN

Local Group Will Attend Student Cabinet Meeting at Camp Daniel Boone This Week

Several cabinet members of the Y. M. C. A. were delegated at a meeting of the cabinet Tuesday night to attend the student cabinet convention at Camp Daniel Boone on April 25, 26 and 27. The convention will be taken up with the discussion of next year's programs and the various problems confronting Y. M. C. A. organizations at the several universities represented.

Among the delegates from the University are Morton Walker, newly elected president of the Y. M. C. A.; Joe Ruttenberger; Carlisle Schuermeyer; Bill Valade; J. M. Jones; Malcolm Barnes; Robert Stewart and Al Kikel.

In addition to the delegates from the University of Kentucky there will be representatives from Transylvania, Eastern Normal, Berea, Moorehead, Normal, Centre and Kentucky Wesleyan, who will have the opportunity to enjoy this beautiful camp on the Kentucky river.

Junior Prom To Present Attractions for Guests With Crowning of Queen

Members of the junior and senior classes and a few of the more favored of the sophomore, will assemble at the gym tonight to enjoy one of the best dances of the school year. The dance committee, under the chairmanship of Jack McGurk, has completed elaborate arrangements for the affair, which will be formal.

As an added attraction to the fair co-eds who will lure many glibbie males to the entertainment, the Queen of the Prom will be presented to the dancers. Miss Mary Lou Renaker, junior in the College of Arts and Sciences and member of Kappa Delta sorority, was elected by the members of the junior class last week to this coveted and much-sought honor. At some time during the evening the activities of the dancers will be interrupted and the queen will be crowned amid the cheers of her sorority sisters.

Last year was the first in the history of the school that a prom queen has been elected. Miss Kathleen Fitch was awarded the honor last year, but due to illness she was unable to go through with the coronation exercises. This time, then, will be the first year that a prom queen has ever been duly presented and crowned.

Finals Program Is Changed by Committeemen

Announcement that final examinations will be given the last three regular class periods this semester instead of the program usually followed by the University was made yesterday by the committee on examinations. This committee was appointed several months ago by the University Senate to investigate the best method of giving examinations in order to save the most time.

Final examinations for freshmen, sophomores and juniors will be held during the week of May 26-31, while examinations for seniors will be held a week earlier. The advantage of this recently adopted method, according to officials of the University, is that much time will be saved. They had feared that there would not be enough time between the regular term and the first term of summer school for Junior Week and for certain improvements which are to be made on the campus.

This method of giving examinations was first tried the spring semester of last year, and met with much unfavorable comment from the student body. According to reports, however, this year will be the last time this method will be used, due to official action of the University Senate.

BOWER TO GIVE BACCALAUREATE

Former Dean at Transylvania Will Address Seniors at Commencement Exercises on June 1

Dr. William Charles Bower, professor of religious education at the University of Chicago and a former dean of Transylvania College, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the University at 3 o'clock in Memorial hall on June 1. The sermon will be preceded by a march of the seniors in caps and gowns from the home of President McVey to the Memorial building.

Dr. Bower was for 15 years a member of the faculty of Transylvania and the College of the Bible. He accepted his present position at the University of Chicago in 1926. While at Transylvania he held many positions and filled them with the greatest ability. For the last two years of his residence in Lexington he was dean of both Transylvania and the College of the Bible. He is widely known as an orator and is considered one of the most enlightened students of the Bible in America.

He is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, the Religious Education Association, the committee on Christian Education of the Federal Council of Churches and is chairman of the curriculum committee of the Disciples of Christ.

Dr. Bower has held the position of pastor in many of the foremost churches of the nation and is highly regarded for his work in this field of religion. He is the author of many books on religious subjects and has attained fame as a writer.

Forum Meeting to Be Held April 25

The Political Science Forum announces that its next meeting will be held at 4:00 p. m., Monday, April 25, in room 301 of the Administration building. This will be next to the last meeting of the year and an interesting program has been planned.

Professor Jones of the Political Science department will speak on "Ghandi and the Indian Situation," which was chosen because of its timeliness. Every student and faculty member who is interested in British-Indian relations is invited to participate in the discussion. Nicholas W. Williams will act as chairman of the meeting.

ONLY COMPARATIVE!

President Frank L. McVey has accepted an invitation to deliver a series of three lectures at the University of Chicago during the summer session of this year. The general subject of Dr. McVey's series of lectures will be "Administration in Higher Education."

SOMME DRIVE IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC AT CONVOCATION

Col O. P. Robinson Describes in Detail Conditions of That Time

TERMS THIS "TURNING POINT OF WORLD WAR"

Maintenance of Army as Measure of Preparedness is Advocated

Speaking at the general convocation of University students at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Memorial hall, and taking as his topic "The Operations of March 21, 1918," Col. O. P. Robinson, professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Indiana, presented an interesting discussion and a vivid portrayal of conditions existing at what he termed, the "turning point of the World War." He stressed the necessity for preparedness, and suggested a medium between the two extremes of preparation on the part of Germany and unpreparedness on the part of the United States at the outbreak of the last war.

The Somme drive of March 21, 1918, was the biggest and the final offensive drive made by the Germans. Illustrating his discussion by various maps of the war area, Col. Robinson pointed out the steps given in the following historical synopsis: "The first and heaviest blow fell to the right of the British army and at the right junction between the French and the British. It was launched March 21 on a front of 50 miles, and continued until April 6." In concluding his address Col. Robinson expressed his belief that an army should be maintained by the United States, not reaching the extreme in preparedness such as Germany boasted, but lying somewhere in the midpoint between the great preparation of Germany and the great unpreparedness of the United States at the beginning of the World War.

Col. Robinson is the author of "Fundamentals of Military Strategy."

SUMMER SESSION STARTS JUNE 16

Numerous Courses Offered, According to Dean Taylor, Director of University Extra Term

Complete schedule and information concerning the summer session of the University are now to be had in the form of the University bulletin for the summer terms, according to Dean W. S. Taylor of the College of Education, who is director of the summer school.

The first term will begin June 16 and expire July 19; the second will be in session from July 21 to August 23. Classes will be held from 7:30 to 12:30 daily. A variety of courses will be offered in all the colleges, as well as in the Graduate School. The summer school is intended for those who, like teachers and superintendents, are unable to attend the regular session and for undergraduates and graduate students wishing to shorten the period of their college courses.

May Queen Election Brings Forth Exhibits of Intrigue As Nine Sororities Compete

Thursday, the democracy of the student government asserted itself and elected a May QUEEN. That is hardly a fair statement of the case, for the ladies were not allowed a vote, but what power they were able to exert with their feminine charms! Such political intrigues and cabalistic designs have not been exhibited since, since—oh, well, since this time last year.

Nine sororities with nine well organized and well oiled political machines sponsored nine pretty girls for the one position of the year which is worth the effort they exerted to win.

The Zeta Taus threw themselves into the race with Ruby Rodgers; the Chi Omegas, the one sorority which still clings to Limestone for no good reason at all, projected themselves into the affair with Sydney Hobson; then the Alpha Gamma—th Hazel Baucom as their best entry; Molly Mack Offutt held high the glory of the Theta house; Kathleen Fitch, that "demure" little lady from the K. D. chapter, aspired to laurels and a kingdom; Mary Armstrong, with the army and the Tri Delta behind her, hoped to go far; Edith Lital of the Delta Zeta group tried smiling her way to a throne; and last, the serene Katherine Davis of local color fame.

1930 Kentuckian Is Adjudged As Outstanding Book

Administration of University Orders Large Number for Advertising Purposes

Friday, May 2, official "May Day" of the University, has been chosen by Editor Virgil Couch for the official distribution of the 1930 Kentuckian, at which time members of the graduating class and others who have ordered books may obtain their copy of the outstanding college annual in the South. Bound in a most attractive cover of genuine black walrus, it presents an appearance which promises much within its covers, and this promise is more than fulfilled as one goes through its contents.

The spirit of the annual represents the spirit that led the men of America through the World War. Scenes of the University campus are such that they are fully representative of the beauty of the institution.

This year, for the first time ever, the picture of President McVey is done in charcoal. This is the highest honor that can be awarded a person through the medium of engraving. The pages which bear the pictures of the deans are well balanced, with an individual picture of each dean and the entrance to his office.

Probably the outstanding feature of the book is the section which contains full page illustrations and pictures of campus affairs. This section, together with the beauty section which includes eight full

University Woman's Club Elects Officers For Coming Year

Mrs. L. L. Dantzier and Mrs. D. H. Peak were elected president and vice-president, respectively, of the University Woman's Club at a meeting of that organization Tuesday afternoon in Patterson hall. Other business of the meeting was the election of other officers and the selection of delegates to the convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's clubs.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Fordice Ely, recording secretary; Mrs. G. C. Latimer, re-elected treasurer; and Mrs. C. M. Knapp, re-elected corresponding secretary.

Delegates to the Woman's club convention, to be held at Bowling Green, are as follows: Mrs. L. L. Dantzier, Mrs. D. R. Peak, Mrs. F. L. McVey and Mrs. P. P. Boyd. The alternates are Miss Margaret McLaughlin, Mrs. George Roberts and Mrs. Lester O'Bannon.

Plans for Floats Must Be Submitted

All fraternities and other organizations are requested to submit their plans for May Day floats to the May Day committee of the University Senate and get the approval of this body, before building the floats and entering them in the parade. The committee consists of Prof. W. E. Freeman, chairman; Dean Sarah Blanding, Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Prof. L. J. Horlacher, and Prof. R. D. McIntyre. The plans should be submitted either verbally or in writing to Professor Freeman, not later than May 1. The committee will inspect all floats before the parade starts, and any that are objectionable will be required to withdraw.

Those who made the trip are the members of the cast: Misses Katherine Davis, Christine Johnson and Mary Elizabeth Fisher; James Gates, Jack Smith, Frank Davidson, Earl Cella, James Dorman, Kenneth McIntyre, Horace Miner, George Roberts and John Hearn; Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, chaperone; Irmen Fort, electrician; Malcolm Barnes and John Jones, stage crew, and Thomas L. Riley, director.

Four years ago some organization decided that we did not have enough traditions on this campus and set about to discover, invent or create one. The May Day exercise is a living refutation of their efforts. It has been on this campus so long that students have forgotten that it never existed, and throughout the world it is so old that no one knows exactly when it did start. It seems that the oriental populace treated itself to a springtime orgy of eating, drinking, dancing, and, in general, celebrating the

KATHLEEN FITCH ELECTED TO MAID OF HONOR POST

Davis, Bennett, Armstrong and Hobson Selected as Attendants

PROCESSION OF SENIORS TO BEGIN FESTIVITIES

Approximately One-Half of Student Body Cast Votes in Election

Miss Hazel Virginia Baucom, of Lexington, a junior in the College of Education and a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, was elected Queen of the May for 1930 yesterday by the men students of the University. Approximately one-half of the student body cast votes in the election, marking one of the heaviest ballots polled in years at campus elections.

Miss Baucom will be crowned Queen of the May on May 2, at which time the University will hold its annual celebration of the advent of the month of flowers and fair weather. On that day she will ride at the head of a mammoth procession through the streets of Lexington, her native city, and will be formally crowned with beautiful ceremony on the campus proper.

Miss Kathleen Fitch, also of Lexington, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences, a member of the Kappa Delta social sorority, received the second highest vote in yesterday's election, and as a result will be maid of honor to Miss Baucom when she is made Queen of the May. Miss Fitch will be remembered as the first Junior Prom queen at the University of Kentucky, she having been elected to that post last year at the first prom queen election here.

Misses Katherine Davis, of Lexington; Betsy Bennett, of Richmond, Ky.; Mary Armstrong, of Lexington, and Mary Sidney Hobson, of Ashland, Ky., were chosen attendants to the queen for the ceremonies at the annual festivities. They ranked in the vote poll in the order named above.

An unusual feature entered the election when it was discovered that four of the girls honored in yesterday's contest are residents of Lexington. It is expected that this will result in an expression of greater interest in the May Day ceremonies this year than ever before.

May Day exercises will begin at 10 o'clock with the procession of the Senior Class in caps and gowns. (Continued on Page Six)

Strollers Play Mountain Towns During Vacation

Seventeen members of Strollers presented "Scarlet" to mountain audiences during the spring vacation. This trip marks the close of the season for Strollers and Director Riley is said to be well pleased with the showing his proteges have made throughout the year.

The players left Lexington Thursday morning, April 17, and returned Saturday afternoon, playing at Pineville Thursday, April 17, and at Harlan, April 18.

The trip was made in a private car and all members of the organization report a most delightful trip. The play was received with a great deal of enthusiasm at both Harlan and Pineville and its presentation proved very profitable to the dramatic organization.

Several new members were taken into Strollers at a meeting held Monday, April 14. All appeared in "Scarlet" and are as follows: Christine Johnson, James Gates, Horace Miner, George Roberts, Kenneth McIntyre and John Hearn.

Freshmen Excluded

It is a University tradition that freshmen must attend neither the Junior Prom nor the Senior Ball. The Men's Student Council will enforce the rule at the Junior Prom tonight, and all freshmen students, whether they have been given tickets or not, are asked to comply with this canon.

Junior men have had one date big and two stag bids placed in their postoffice boxes by the Prom committee.

Drama Presented at Vespers by Fowler

Prof. R. E. Jarman to Direct
Presentation of Mendelssohn's Oratorio

Members of the Guignol players, under the direction of Prof. Frank Fowler, presented "The Terrible Week," a play by Charles Rand Kennedy, Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall, as the regular weekly vespers service.

The scene of the play was laid at the foot of the cross and the time was the night of the crucifixion.

Three characters appeared: A woman, Mrs. Lola Robinson; a soldier, Andrew Hoover, and an army officer, James Boucher. The cast gave an excellent performance under the direction of Mr. Fowler. Special musical accompaniment was given by Dr. A. W. Kelly at the piano.

Prof. (sternly): "This essay on 'Our Dog' is word for word the same as your brother's."

Sweet young thing: "Why not? It's the same dog."—McGill Daily.

"The Child Centered Speller," a book by Prof. Jesse E. Adams, has been adopted in Kentucky schools for a five-year period for the first through the eighth grade schools. The book was recently completed by Prof. Adams after a thorough and painstaking research into the teaching methods that are practiced in grammar schools. In this work the attempt has been made to simplify the subject so that it will present less of a problem to the grammar school teacher.

DEAD METAL LEAPS TO LIFE at the hands of Westinghouse engineers

IT is engineering that breathes the spark of life into lifeless metal, that converts it into active machinery, that makes of it an adaptable servant. One essential ingredient of that engineering is imagination. A second is rational thinking, the object of your technical training. And the third is teamwork.

In the development of the 55,000 kw. Duke Power Turbines, teamwork extended back to the date when George Westinghouse brought the steam turbine to America. It included men who have made life studies of vibration, of blade design, of the effects of superheated steam on metals; men who know how to make huge castings, the packers who have mastered the science of shipping giant machinery. And it took in also the business men who create a market for such machinery and who cement together the many-fold activities of the Westinghouse institution.

MINUS GRADES, CREDITS

In a recent article for the press, President Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago outlined plans for a system of university education without grades, compulsory attendance, or assignments. Such a project has long been the idol of university students, but it is to be doubted whether the system, in its entirety, would avail of the desired results.

In the first place, students are mentally lazy. In a system in which all compulsions were removed and the scholastic standards maintained, the quite natural results would be that the ratio of students able to complete the required work would considerably decrease. We can well imagine ourselves attending 8 o'clock classes on a winter morning with the thermometer several degrees below, when our attendance was not required, and there was a possibility of our obtaining any information at all from a leisurely after-breakfast perusal of a book before the fire. Even with the instructor doing his best to encourage attendance and pouring sweetened information from his spoonful of knowledge into the upturned mouths of his scholastic cohorts, it is with some considerable difficulty that the students acquire any information at all.

While it is true that "there is nothing sacred about the mystical four years in which to gain a degree" we have found that for the ordinary student it is hardly enough to get even a smattering of knowledge. And graduation from college at the end of a two-year period through a rapid-fire process of examinations doesn't assure us that Dr. Hutchins' "brilliant student" would be as well educated as another who spent the allotted four years in compulsory attendance at his university with some time for taking stock of his surroundings and acquiring little bits of information that will enable him to sell John Doe a particular brand of radio when he thought he wanted another kind. Incidentally such information is not likely to develop by setting up an arbitrary standard in which an examination is the only barrier.

And just as a wee reminder that there are a few professors scattered throughout the land that are not mere quizmasters, we count the most valuable moments that we have spent in college those periods spent in classes taught by some of our venerable schoolmasters. They were not worried about the students in their classes being tested by an adding machine because there was little fear of their being found wanting at the test. Irrespective of any grade that we may have received from these revered educators, and the further fact that they did not look kindly on spasmodic attendance, we shall always feel that they have honored us beyond compare by their worldly wisdom which has been thus thrust down our throats.

The chief objection to Dr. Hutchins' theory of an ultra-modern university is that it does not account for the perversity that is characteristic of students. Such a system might well be applicable to an advanced student who has enjoyed valuable training under a compulsory system of education, but for the masses of college students we are naturally dubious as to the practicality of the project.

FAITH OF YOUTH

"It takes more faith to eat a ham sandwich with which you are not acquainted than it does to be a Christian," stated Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, minister-novelist, radio speaker and prohibition campaigner, in a discussion which was supposed to prove that youth was "incurably religious." Youth is credited with having a startling amount of faith, but unfortunately or fortunately, it does not attempt to cultivate it any more? Jake leg has frightened it!

If faith in the unknown is religion then youth is indeed incurably religious. Any possible faith in the known that it might have had has been shattered so long ago that it is no longer spoken of. The unknown is all that is left. We earned that our parents told little white fibs when we found out the truth about Santa Claus and our faith was never the same. Then one day we discovered that the devil was not a tangible thing and so we quit going to church as soon as we were too old for mamma to spank. Abe Lincoln did not go to school, but we have long since lost our faith in schools, anyhow. Now we can get divorce in Russia in nine minutes and all for nothing, so why worry about the stability of later life? If we don't like it, we know what we can do. Stock markets can crash and mobs can run wild internationally, politics are crooked and life is just a big bluff, evolution is a fact, so why worry about the known? It isn't worth bothering over. No wonder youth has faith in the unknown. Life cannot go on without something to hitch your wagon to.

What is the unknown that youth has such faith in? It is the thrill of taking a chance, of discovery, of unusual deeds and thoughts, of unusual words, the sheer thrill of living and bluffing a little better than the other fellow. This faith was not built in the church. It was built in the moments spent in solitary confinement; for stealing the money from the heathens to go to a show on, or for cutting church. Had church been a little less like a dose of castor oil, a whipping if not properly taken, and a little more like a ham sandwich, satisfying, youth would have been religious and not incurable today. Also their faith would have had a tangible goal to strive toward.

Youth will go on eating strange ham sandwiches forever and hoping that they come from contented pigs. Sunday church will cease to be administered in doses during the formative period and a natural human liking in it will be cultivated. Fear of the Lord will be taught as a sin. Love of the Lord, as the staff of life. It will not take any effort of faith to be a Christian and people who continue to compare Christianity to ham sandwiches in order to make it enticing will be fed strange ham sandwiches three times a day and belong to the Jewish church.

MORAL MOVIES

Will Hays and all the motion picture producers have just endorsed a new code of ethics for the movies. All the usual plots will be disbanded by this code, which endorses all things never endorsed before and censors more than the Ohio Board of Censors ever thought of. If this code is effective the words "movies" and "morals" will be easily used interchangeably.

The rat-a-tat of horses' hoofs will echo down the reels of time instead of the chug-chug of the collegiate Ford. The villain will be the lounge lizard who gets punished for all his laziness, but who will never be dramatically killed by the hero, unless the hero, too, is punished for his crime.

No more breath-taking clinches will try to leave a pleasant taste in your mouth at the end of the picture. Worst of all, the little heroine can never draw the attention of the mobs by being practically disrobed at the duldest part of the plot.

Chorus girls will be well dressed and will do nice little dances and sing nice little songs with absolutely no suggestive passages in them. Jokes will be "Pat and Mike" stories told in a manner that will appeal to any English sense of humor. Never again shall we see and hear the typical movie wild party.

What will the movies be? What can the movies be when they will have polite villains and completely dressed heroines; when the eternal triangle will be abolished unless used to teach a moral lesson; when men will be gentlemen and women will be ladies?

Can the movies be unless they exist as they do today, they are to blame for the cultivation of the present-day taste of the public.

Pirates no longer have sex appeal and horses are mechanical reducing machines. What a re-education it will be! What a life without the old Clara Bow and John Gilbert types to create an illusion of romance and adventure! Movies will be a place to cool off in the summer time but no longer a place to warm up in the winter!

HYPOCRITICAL CO-EDS

(Daily Northwestern)

A walking tour around the women's quadrangles early most any evening will convince one that there is another "rule" on this campus which should go by the boards. Cars line the curb, and in these cars countless tiny red sparks reveal the presence of as many co-eds gallantly surviving the rigors of a cold evening for one last puff at the old cigarette before settling down for an evening of study, or whatever it may be.

It would be trivial to point out that co-eds have just as much right to the cigarette as men on the campus, yet one is startlingly aware of the fact that although this is undoubtedly true, still the University Quad Association, composed both of co-eds and graduated women, does not officially believe that co-eds should smoke.

Possibly we are just a little old-fashioned in believing that it is best for women not to smoke too publicly. It is much better for them to do their smoking in the less conspicuous places. Certainly it would be far better for them to smoke in their houses than for them to line the curbs around them dragging on cigarettes! This appears only logical, yet in the place where it would be most proper for co-eds to smoke they cannot do so!

The hypocrisy of this whole situation strikes us as nothing short of ridiculous. It is about time for the University and its co-eds to get together and reach a compromise on smoking in women's houses.

SCORNING POLITICAL PULL

(Indiana Student)

Selection of persons for campus honors by merit rather than by "political pull" is a practice meeting with increased favor in the larger universities of the country. Campus politics no longer controls the major positions in campus activity. Universities the country over are turning to the merit system of picking student leaders.

The University of Michigan is the latest institution to promote the merit system on its campus. An adoption of a merit system for the selection of the two highest student officers of the Michigan Union has been approved in principle by the Student Council of the Wolverine school. The merit system, according to tentative plans, would provide for the selection each spring of the president and recording secretary by a special committee consisting of four alumni or faculty members and three students, the latter to be elected at the annual campus vote in the spring.

Indiana recently adopted such a merit system for the selecting of class dance committees. Both students and faculty members acted on the selection board for choosing the Junior Prom committee. The Arbutus executive positions also are determined in such a manner.

In promoting this system Indiana University is in step with the leading institutions of higher learning in the country. The system should be carried on further on the Indiana campus in picking responsible men for the responsible offices in other student affairs.

QUEENS AND MORE QUEENS

(Ohio State Lantern.)

Plans for the election of a queen for the Junior Prom at the University of Kansas have been dropped by the committee following the unanimous request of women students on that campus. In voting against the proposed move to elect a queen for the annual event, the women declared that the contest would "cheapen the women of the campus and lower the tone of the campus."

Campus queens at the University of Kansas are practically unheard of. The election of a queen for the prom was to have been an innovation and was instigated to follow out plans used by other large universities in the country. The practice followed by Ohio State is decidedly different. Sharply in contrast with Kansas, this University has too many queens. A campus event cannot be promoted here without a queen. Some are elected by campus vote and others named by chairmen and class presidents. One campus honorary names as many queens as it has members at its social functions. A co-ed here can hardly hope to realize popularity unless she has been a queen at some time in her college career.

COLLEGE COMMENT

The Florida Flambeau, published by the students of Florida State College for Women, contains a column entitled "Through the Keyhole." We rise to remark that it "should" be the most popular contribution to the paper, and it probably is!

The Purdue Exponent editorially declares that the student council of that institution ought to take action against the fellows who wear "lip fur" as facial adornment. All of which explains student rebellions at other institutions in the land of the free, in as much as hirsute lips are among the more prized possessions of college men.

A recent issue of the Kentucky Wesleyan Undercurrent carried a beautiful and touching poem on classroom meditations and the joys of looking out of the window at the beauties of nature. At the University of Kentucky it is unnecessary to consult the window.

We note with surprise that snow warms the interest of poets at the Colorado School of Mines. It must be the same principle that underlies the fascinating attitude of a number of co-eds hereabouts.

School editors at West Virginia University declare that beauty contests are a matter of public vulgarity. It may be true, but it is vulgar to discuss it.

"Non parata," dixit Freshie.
Cum a sad et doleful look.
"Omne recte," Prof. respondit.
Nihil scripsit in her book.
M. H. H., 1919, in Wellesley College News

University of Nebraska, believes that men talk more than women. We do not intend to cast reflections on the fair sex, but there is just a chance that Doctor Pound has been paying more attention to the men than the women, or that she has gone outside the sphere of college life.

Somewhere we read the following prophecy: The best seller of 1930 will be entitled "Midhouse Mother," or a "Co-ed's Nightmare."

LITERARY COLUMN

MARGARET CUNDIFF, Editor

The following notice has just been received and will be of interest to readers of this column:

"The Poetry Journal wishes to announce its entrance in the field of verse. We enter the field with one pronounced purpose in mind, to wit: to promote the cause of the unheralded and unknown versifier.

"We will be pleased, therefore, to have you announce that we are in need of poetry for our first issues. We will use short verse mostly, up to 32 lines, of the serious type. One or two longer poems with an open theme will be used each issue. Good humorous verse with a general appeal can be used. Dialect must be exceptional. Verse with a strikingly human, present-day touch will be especially welcomed.

"We will pay from $1.00 to $5.00 on publication for each poem we print in The Poetry Journal. We further expect to announce an annual poet's prize. All verse submitted will be subject to change or revision according to our editorial policy. A stamped, self-addressed envelope should be inclosed."—Poetry Journal, 192 North Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

Womans' Conference To Hold Annual Meet On May 1 and May 6

The annual Woman's Conference for all women of the University will be held on the afternoons of May 1 and May 6 at 3:45 o'clock in Memorial hall. Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, director of the Frontier Nursing Service, Leslie county, and Mrs. Eleanor Wembridge, judge of the juvenile court, Cleveland, Ohio, will be the speakers at these meetings.

The Woman's Conference is held once every year and many well-known and accomplished women have spoken to the women students of the University in past years. Two years ago Zona Gale, famous author, was the speaker.

Attendance at these meetings is required, according to an announcement from the office of the Dean of Women, Miss Sarah G. Blanding. The University Council has excused all women having 4 o'clock classes on the days of the conference.

Kentucky Given Edge To Beat Volunteers; Shivelymen Unbeaten

By Lawrence Crump

Coach Bernie Shively and the Kentucky track and field squad will leave tonight for Knoxville Tenn., the home of near-champion football teams, to engage the Volunteer thinlies in a dual track meet. Dope gives the Wildcats a slight edge on the chances for avenging a 74-2-3 to 42-1-3 beating which the Vols handed out last year. It is also a chance for Kentucky to gain the edge on Tennessee for the season; the two institutions having fought to a 6 to 8 tie on Thanksgiving day and taken a game apiece in basketball.

Should Kentucky win this meet they are practically assured of an undefeated track season, as they defeated the powerful Vanderbilt squad during the spring vacation. Tennessee had no trouble in taking Sewanee last week and the Tigers are Kentucky's next and last opponents before the S. C. meet.

Kelly Is Hot

"Shipwreck" Kelly, who has won six firsts in two dual meets, has a fine chance to make it nine against the Vols. Clark, of Tennessee, finished second to Hug, also of Tennessee, in the 100-yard dash in the Sewanee meet, but Clark was able to step it off in 10:2 at the Tech relays. Kelly should make better time than that, but in the 220-yard dash he will have to defeat not only Clark, but his teammate, Heber. Corbett, of Tennessee, broad jumped 21-11 3-4 inches against Sewanee, while Kelly was doing better than 22 feet in the Vanderbilt meet.

The quarter-mile will be an interesting duel between Hug, of Tennessee, who finished second to Williams, of Washington and Lee, last year in the Southern Conference meet, and Clyde Jones, of Kentucky. Jones is in fine shape this season and is turning in good time. He was able to clip off the quarter in :54 Wednesday afternoon in practice on a slow track.

Wayman Thomasson will have a chance to do his stuff against plenty of competition in the person of chance that Captain Hays Owens half-mile around 2:03.

Owens Hits 1:59

Captain Hays will run this event after the fine showing he made at the Tech relays. Running with the two-mile relay team which came within a fraction of a second of tying the Southern Conference record, Owens was clocked for his half-mile at 1:59, time which will win lots of half miles.

O'Bryan will have trouble in the mile with Stewart, who runs close to 4:30 for this event. Owens should take Fitzgerald of Tennessee in the two-mile.

The hurdles are close, with Tennessee having the edge with Cravens doing the 120-yard highs in :16.03.

In the field events Tennessee seems to be a little ahead. The shot will be a duel between Wright and Forquer, of Kentucky, and Hickman, of Tennessee, all of these men throwing the ball around 40 feet.

The discs should go to the Vols with little opposition, as Heydrick gets close to 125 feet. Football fans will remember this boy who came up with Volunteer frosh two years ago and did everything with the pigskin but pull it out of a hat. He has not been able to replace the Hack and Mack combination for their varsity, however. Heydrick will also throw the javelin, but McLane is capable of beating his best throw.

Young, of Sewanee, and Johnson, of Tennessee, tied at 5 feet 9 inches in the high jump, which is 3 inches short of Roberts' best jump.

Gibson and Porter, of Kentucky, should both defeat Corbett in the pole vault.

Shively is anxious to win this meet as it means an undefeated season for Kentucky as well as proving to Coach Potter that he does right well as a head coach.

Varsity Suffocates Frosh in Practice

Trott and Urbaniak Head Big Blue Diamonders In Slugging Spree

In a revengeful spirit as the result of the close score to which they were held in a previous game, the varsity horseholders ran hog-wild at the expense of the newly-uniformed Big Green, Tuesday afternoon, in the second practice game of the season between the two nines.

The varsity started things off in a big way and before the third inning had passed were clicking off hits and runs in unlimited quantities. The scorekeeper's pencil was worn down to the nub stage in a hurry and no accurate record of the runs made is available, although the total is well over a dozen. Base hits were doubly prolific, every substitute on the squad getting his chance to share in the club work before the evening mess call and lengthening shadows prevailed upon Coach Devereaux to stop the slaughter.

Leading the way for the Wildcat sluggers, who at last seem to have come into their own, were Trott, outfield star, and Urbaniak, sophomore shortstop, who included among their other hits long drives to the great open spaces that were good for the circuit. B. B. Tucker and his Green infield mates were backed into the outfield in their effort to dodge the sizzling drives from the varsity war clubs as one Big Blue man after another started on his scoring journey.

McBryer and McMurray, the varsity's prize Scotch duo, were on the mound during the track meet, toying with their little brothers and limiting them to a minimum number of bingles. Ellis and Aldridge, freshman hurlers, were the unlucky victims of the Wildcats' hilarious snake dance around the hassocks.

TABLE D'HOTE TO STAR NOONAN

Rehearsals for "Table d'Hote," the last Guignol attraction of the current season, have assumed the attitude of sincerity and ultra-sophistication. The three-act Fowler-Galloway creation will be presented at the Guignol theater during the entire week of May 5.

Pre-performance indications are to the effect that Mr. John Noonan will annex more laurels to his already brilliant dramatic career when he is seen in the naive role of Billy Pettigrew, wealthy sportsman and prattling buffon. Mr. Glen Baylor will effectively demonstrate the nonchalance of the "Idle rich" in the bachelor role of Garry Hamilton, famous polo player. Mr. Kenneth McIntyre, as George McAllister, is resting after a family quarrel and yearning for domestic peace and tranquility.

Feminine honors will be equally distributed between Misses Virginia Boyd, Mary Sidney Robson, Virginia McVey, Jean Bullit Lowry and Mrs. J. W. Martin. These characters utilize every opportunity to discuss society, marriage, and men.

The action takes place in the dining room of a fashionable summer resort hotel where Martin Glenn presides as the courteous and sympathetic head waiter. Delroy Root and Horace Miner, as waiters, will dispense deluxe service and tempting victuals to the indigestive patrons.

The entire play will be greatly enjoyed by those who appreciate high class comedy. It will appropriately close a very successful Guignol season that has attracted much attention in the dramatic world.

WHITMAN WINS COLLIER PRIZE ON SHORT STORY

What's in a name? M. J. Whit-mar, of Cincinnati, Ohio, found that not only his name resembles that of the famous humorist, H. C. Wit-ter, but that his style of writing is so like Mr. Witwer's that he won a $1,000 prize.

H. C. Witwer died last year and left an unfinished story. On December 14, 1929, Collier's weekly magazine published Mr. Witwer's unfinished story, "King's Up," and offered a prize of $1,000 for the best ending by amateur writers. There were additional prizes of $500, $300 and $200 and ten $50 offered.

Mr. Whitmar, a young man of 23, won the $1,000 prize. He finished the story in that breezy, slangy, yet interesting style which characterized H. C. Witwer's writing. The story is published in Collier's for April 5.

Mr. Leo Cosby won the fourth prize of $200. Mr. Cosby is 38 years old, was born in Kentucky and did newspaper work in this state. He is now located in Pasadena, Calif., and is employed by a motion picture company.

Saw also RED HOWARD escorting GLADYS RICE which do cause me to wonder what new scandal is this. Saw HAZEL BAUCOM finely furnished in her new spring finery to attract the glib voter. May Queen Election Exposes Intrigues new life to which the earth was giving birth.

The early Roman and Germanic tribes devoted themselves to it, worshipping the Goddess Maia, who was a symbol of fertility. Later it was established by the Romans in 238 B. C. Flora was the goddess of fertility and was made the goddess of the institution which they named the Floria. This spring celebration took place on April 28 and continued until the third day of May. During the period of festivity the populace devoted itself to the usual orgies of the occasion and sang songs of a doubtful nature. The young people indulged in games and other exercises of an amatory character. The May Pole was a phallic symbol and was worshipped as such. The Queen of the May was not allowed to go without a consort and a king was chosen also. It being a season of marriages, many took place.

The tradition spread through all of Europe and is prevalent in America, Kentucky not excepted. Most unfortunately there will be no king for the occasion. There is a delightful rumor to the effect that some pious Puritans decided to do away with the king as an unnecessary evil. Consequently we have a one-sided affair.

There will be no marriages at this exercise for it is against public policy. In 1960 a well preserved elderly lady will send her daughter to Kentucky, an institution of 15,000. Her parting words of admonition will be: "Remember, darling, that you must maintain a decorum befitting a person of your position. Your mother had a reputation at Kentucky and she desires you to uphold it unspotted. Remember, darling, that your mother was once Queen of the May."

After a very sluggish week it appears that some of the outstanding attractions of the year will be on exhibition at the local theaters next week.

—TLR—
The little State crashed through this week with two better-than-average pictures in "Under a Texas Moon" and "Lilies of the Field." Wednesday and Thursday the State will feature "Spring Is Here," from which "Cryin' for the Carolines" comes, and this production is recommended.

—TLR—
One of the most noteworthy, if not entertaining motion pictures of the year is "The Case of Sergeant Grisha," which will open at the Ben All theater Sunday. Radio produced this under the direction of Herbert Brenon and the cast includes Chester Morris, Betty Compson, Jean Hersholt and Alec B. Francis. The adaptation of Arnold Zwi's famous war story is said to adhere to the original in every detail and tells of a Russian peasant who constantly longs to get out of the war. He is finally shot as a deserter. It is said that Director Brenon has done a beautiful piece of work from the technical side.

—TLR—
Although I honestly tried to prevent it, I could not sit through "High Society Blues" or "Young

In blue and the four-color process pictures having black as a basic color. The color art work was done by an artist especially selected by the staff for his excellent work along this line in other publications.

Fraternity, sorority, special organizations, and professional and honorary fraternities, have been given full sections in the book, and every such organization has been treated with all consideration in the arrangement of their group.

Seniors may get their copies of the book at the Campus Book Store Friday morning. A small number of books were ordered for others who desired annuals, and these may be secured at the same time.

As a final indication of the esteem with which the work of this Kentuckian of 1930 is held, the University administration has ordered a large number of the books for advertising purposes, since they feel it is worthy of the University it represents.

Congratulations to you, Mr. Couch, and to your efficient staff!
